

The diagram shows a rectangular print layout with three horizontal lines near the top. From top to bottom, they are a red line, a blue line, and a black line. Three black arrows point upwards from the text below to each of these lines. The red line is the innermost, the blue line is in the middle, and the black line is the outermost. The text below each line explains its function: the red line is the cut line, the blue line is the safety line, and the black line is the bleed line. At the bottom center, the finished size and size with bleed are specified.
